THE BOAT WAS OVERLOADED

Lease-Mining Notes. The letter of a Butte man, published

Ground Will Soon be Broken for the

Million Dollar Smelter-Buckeye

in the Miner of that city, tells of his trip to Cape Nome, and describes some of the hardships of the voyage, The writer of the letter was one of the Montana soldiers who went to the Philippines. He says in part: "I will describe the trip in part by telling you that it is 50 per cent worse than a transport. Our sleeping quarters were on the same deck as we had on the transports to and from Manila, though fore and aft amid ship on the same deck were 100 head of horses and cattle. Some of these died, as it was too hard a game for them. The only way one could get anything to eat was to buy it. Some of the passengers engaged bunks from members of the crew, paying from $2 to $5 for the some. Fortunately we had fine weather, except that it was cold. I think many of the pasengers would have been dead by now, if we had had any rough The food furnished the passengers was the same as on a transport, only four times as dirty. The writer of the above letter left on one of the first boats leaving Seattle this last May. Most of the first vessels going to Nome made a specialof freight and then appear to have ded on as many passengers as they ald carry. It is the old story, howr, and it does not seem to make difference where a new supposed lorado exists, those who join in the dships and inconveniences. It was same with those who first went Klondike. It is probable that the illar to the above from passengers have left Montana to hunt gold the beach of Nome.

WHEAT.

Dun's Review: The damage to the wheat crop of the Northwest is the event of chief importance. How extensive the loss may prove, in view of widely conflicting accounts, can only be judged from the speculative markets in which information gathered at the West has caused a remarkable advance, at Chicago 15 cents in ten days, and the price here has advanced 11 cents per bushel, though for the Sepper option only 9 cents. The belief is that so large a part of the spring wheat has been killed as to reduce a yield expected to be close to the larg-est on record to considerably less than the world has required during the crop year now ending.

would have been reasoned that any material advance in price would neutral ize the foreign conditions which had caused exports of about 180 million bushels wheat, flour included, in the closing year, after 222 million bushels in the previous year and 217 million bushelt in the year, 1898, besides ex-ports of 213 million bushels corn in the closing year against 177 million last year and 212 million in the previous ear. But the facts seem to indicate a nore extensive and lasting increase of foreign demand than has been con-sidered probable. Other sources of heav; export have been found disap-pointing. The United States continues show enormous power of increase, supported by prices which, until reent years, would hardly have been re-rarded remarkably high. If the com-ng crop falls much below expectations the demand for it may prove surprising. even though prices average more than

Some Improvement in Leading Stocks, but the General Tendency is Down -Live Stock Fairly Steady.

New York, June 29 .- American stocks were supported in London this morning and yesterday's advance continued here at the opening. Some of the leading stocks rose above the opening level, particularly sugar, which touched 1.14%. Otherwise the tendency was downward on realizing, with tobacco, the grangers, and the tractions, most prominent. In some of the obscure stocks there were sharp gains, Pullman rising four points. The market was quite active until the level of prices fell back to near last night, when it became dull. An advance in wheat quotations was reflected in a gradual sagging of stock prices, during which the earlier gains in the railroads were wiped out. There was a marked contraction in business as the decline proceeded, which brought some support to the market by midday.

The bond market displayed an upward tendency on a good demand. SUGAR.

* TWO CREAT RIVAL SCHOOLS

The Chicago University Pitted Against the Northwestern.

ROCKEFELLER'S CASH HELPS

Why Dr. H. W. Rogers, President of the Other, Resigned - Dr. Harper's Power to Secure Endowments.

Special Correspondence, Chicago, June 21.-The educational segment of this city is still discussing with earnestness the recent resignation of Dr. Henry Wade Rogers, who has been president of the Northwestern university since 1890. There are many who do not regret this step on his part. Were there not he would probably have vet there are some who regret that circumstances have forced incumbency, strove to bring the Northwestern university to the highest grade. Yet, in spite of all that he could do and its en lowment of not far from $4,-000,000, the Northwestern university has been steadily falling into a relatively lower place for some years, and this is the true cause of his retirement.

him out and there are very few indeed who will not accord to him the sincerest praise as one who, during his

ITS RIVAL HAS PROVED TOO STRONG. In a way, and very directly, too, the failure of Dr. Rogers to make the mark he hoped to when he went to the North; western has been due to the great interest taken in the cause of education by John D. Rockefeller. As the world has been informed from time to time, this great emperor in oil has expended a bigger fortune than is possessed by some who are termed multimillionaires in this cause in the last few years. Had all this money or only a part of it gone to the Northwestern, or had some other man with millions to match

Rockefeller's come to the Northwestern's aid, then all would have been well. But Rockefeller has favored the Chicago university only, and no one with wealth remotely approaching his has done anything for the Northwestern. It is claimed in some quarters, and may be true, that were it not for the tremendous advance made by the Chicago university on Mr. Rockefel-ler's money the Northwestern's progress would have been deemed phenom. The trouble has been that, no matter what it did, the rival school did better, as of course it could with re-sources of $5 for every dollar of the Northwestern's. DR, ROGERS VS DR. HARPER. There was a time when Dr. Rogers' friends did not hesitate to point all this out whenever fault was found with him because the Chicago university was getting ahead, but that time passed long ago, his critics holding that the president of the Northwestern should be able to do as much as Dr. Harper could in getting money; that he should go out and corral a multi-millionaire who would put up dollar for dollar with the opulent friend of the younger institution. It is easy to say this, but the finding of a university patron to suit the requirements of the case is another matter. In fine, no such man was to be found either with regard to wealth or liberality, and so Dr. Rogers had to endure the mortification of seeing his most cherished ambitions vanish into thin mist. Dr. Harper, his competitor, is really wonderful man in many ways, and his hold upon Mr. Rockefeller is simply remarkable. It is mare than hinted that the latter has repeatedly begged of the doctor to ask less from time to time and that in each instance Dr. Harper has asked for more instead, It should not be forgotten that he has by no means confined his requests to Mr. Rockefeller. Many of the benefactions have been bestowed on condition that they should be equaled by gifts from other sources. Dr. Harper's success in matching every one of the Rockefeller gifts is quite as remarkable as his power to get the latter.

FEATURES OF THE NORTHWEST One feature of the Northwest-it is a co-educational university—is the large number of young women stu-dents on its rolls. It is quite true that the classes have increased materially in the last few years and that this year's attendance at the college of liberal arts was nearly twice as large as it was a decade ago, but the additional students are so overwhelmingly feminine that those not in sympathy with the present administration have often spoke slightingly of the institution as a "girls' school."

Another and really very interesting feature of the Northwestern university is its crew of life savers, the only saudent body of its sort in the service of the United States. The Northwestern is located at Evanston, a suburb of the city, and its campus fronts Lake Michigan. Standing on the campus is a little red brick building which the crew has occupied for more than twenty

The crew was organized a short time before the building was erected, when the authorities of the university were trying to find employment by which needy students could work their way through college and the government was on the lookout for the right men to serve as life savers.

The two needs were of benefit to both the government and the college, and an understanding was quickly arrived at when the university trustees offered to give the site of the building to the government providing the crew should be permanently composed of students only. It may be added that there is no better life saving crew on the lake than the Evanston students. They have covered themselves with glory on more than one occasion.
